Terms of use

- The copies may only be used for the topic and purpose given, and may not be passed on to other persons without the agreement of the Goethe and Schiller Archive.
- Statutory regulations concerning the protection of copyright and personal rights must be complied with when using the copies. The user shall bear sole liability for any infringement of these regulations.
- Permission must be obtained from the Archive before copying, replicating or disseminating items in their entirety or before making images of part or all of any archived items (see Application for Authorisation of Publication).
- The user shall send the Goethe and Schiller Archive two free copies (one copy in exceptional cases here reasonable grounds exist) of publications and unpublished dissertations, Bachelor's and Master's theses in which the copies are used; the user shall send them immediately after release without being requested to do so. In the case of online publications, the Archive shall be granted free access to the relevant publication. The invoice for the copies must be settled within 14 days of issue.

☐ I herewith accept these terms and the Fee Scale of the Klassik Stiftung Weimar as binding.

☐ Please send me the Application for Authorisation of Publication (copy or illustration of archived items).

- 1) When ordering from the Archive: you are requested to refrain from removing the folios to be copied from the folders; please mark them by inserting strips.
- 2) A maximum of 50 Xerox copies or 20 scans of archived originals may be made per order. Decisions concerning exceptions – e.g. plans to publish editions – will be made in individual cases.
